

Lookout

AT LARGE

NewsLetter

August 2015

How a life can change when cooking matters

With homeless behind her, Anna aims for a new goal

Cooking matters to Anna, an assistant instructor at the HAVE Café.

It was through cooking she became part of the HAVE community, which gave her a reason to get up every day and come to work. It is also through cooking Anna now has an ambition - to become a red seal cook, the highest standard in the profession.

Read More

Lookout shows its pride at parade

Would you wear tutu or a pink boa in a parade watched live by more than 600,000 people?

That's what Lookout Society representatives, including the board chair, were doing as participants in the annual Vancouver Pride Parade.

Read More

We're sold on the DTES Street Market

By Shayne Williams
Executive Director

There was a bit of NIMBYism going on when the Downtown Eastside Street Market moved to Powell Street.

The Lookout Society has a different view.

Read More

Get ready for the H'Arts gala

H'Arts for the Homeless is an experience of art, circus, music, magic, storytelling and dance.

This year's gala event is Oct. 1 at The Imperial.

Learn more and buy tickets.

Stay Connected to us through our social media

www.lookoutsociety.ca

429 Alexander St., Vancouver